

Your band can drop silently

Nitaqat has 41 sectors, each with a different threshold, and your band shifts with company size and workforce count alone. No hiring. No firing. Just the quarter changing under you. Most employers check once a year. The system moves four times a year. Fill in six fields, look up two numbers, and you will know where you stand today, before a tender or a visa application finds out for you.

FILL THIS IN AGAINST YOUR QIWA SCREEN

Your sector threshold and current band are both published on Qiwa (qiwa.sa), under your establishment's Nitaqat status. If you have never opened that screen, that is the first field you cannot fill in yet, and the most important one.

Your sector (1 of 41)

Reported workforce count

Company size category

Your band today

Last time you checked this

Next recheck date (quarterly)

WHAT MOVES WHEN YOUR BAND DROPS

Etimad tender eligibility

Needs Nitaqat Medium or higher to bid

Work visa issuance

Slower at lower bands

Mudad inspection priority

Higher scrutiny at lower bands

GOSI contribution rate

Can shift with band

NEXT STEP

If the band you just wrote down is lower than the one you assumed, that gap is exactly the kind of thing that only surfaces when a tender gets rejected or a visa stalls. Book a free 20-minute brief and bring these six fields, we will walk through what it costs you at this band and what it takes to move up one.

Want more of this first: connect on LinkedIn.